RESEARCH PUBLICATION FELLOWSHIPS
GUIDELINES

1. UNSW Canberra Research Publication Fellowships are intended to provide support for PhD students who have submitted their thesis and are awaiting the examiners’ reports at UNSW Canberra. The goal of the scheme is to enable students to write and submit publications based on their theses.

2. To be eligible for these Fellowships, students must have submitted their thesis within 3.5 years of the commencement of their candidature. This requirement is not negotiable.

3. Research Publication Fellowships are available to support those students (Australian or International) who will not be in receipt of a stipend or other dependable income and who will be at UNSW Canberra preparing materials for academic publications. Recipients have to be on campus full-time.

4. In accepting a Research Publication Fellowship, it is anticipated that the recipient will use a maximum of three months following thesis submission to prepare material for journals or other academic publications. The default duration for a Research Publication Fellowship is 2 months for one proposed publication and a maximum of 3 months if two or more publications or a book (A1) are indicated on the application form. Supervisors and Schools need to confirm that the proposed work is feasible and realistic within the timeframe of the Fellowship.

5. The proposed publications must fall under the HERDC categories of A1, B1 or C1 (Scholarly book, peer reviewed book chapter, peer reviewed journal article).

6. Nominations for the Research Publication Fellowships must be submitted to the Research Student Unit by the student’s supervisor, accepted by the student and fully endorsed by both the Supervisor and Head of School.

7. The nomination must be lodged on the Research Publication Fellowship Nomination Form.

8. The supervisor must be available for consultation and guidance in the preparation of the publication(s) while the candidate is in receipt of this Fellowship.

9. Awardees will be paid at the rate of $2,000 per month for a maximum of three months. Research Publication Fellowships are not renewable.

10. Support provided by Research Publication Fellowship must be acknowledged in publications and details provided to the Research Student Unit when submitted/accepted.

11. Within 12 months of completion of the Research Publication Fellowship, the supervisor is required to provide clear written evidence of the publication outcome to RSU.
